Update: September 6, 2019

Summary:

1. The previous newsletter predictions about the movement of the crypto currency market proved to be correct for three major moves: BTC dropped to the $9K range, then quickly regained $10k exactly as guided on the day called for, then fell again into the $9K range, only to move to a recent $10,865. This is outstanding bull market movement!
2. Cryptos, especially the top tiers of BTC, BCH, LTC, ETH are on another bull run that has much more upside. It is safe to buy and hold for now.
3. Also correctly predicted, gold and silver has been the best performing asset by far in August, gaining 7.7% for gold and 12.2% for silver.
4. First, buy physical gold and silver from your local coin dealer, or buy from onegold.com using this link to get $5 extra to spend. It is the least expensive way to buy, sell, or trade gold and silver. This is a referral link. <http://bit.ly/onegold5Gift>
5. Then buy selected mining stocks based on recommendations provided here. These recommendations have already risen well over 60% and the best is still ahead.
6. The prediction for shorting the general stock market with long dated options has been profitable for over 8 months straight, assuming you close out the position with the frequent 400+ point down days we have experienced. Despite several analysts saying the market will continue rising, the prevailing pull is downward for the markets. The FED has reversed tightening slightly, so more money is flowing into the stock markets, but over inflated values are challenging to push beyond nosebleed levels. The advice to short the highest flying stocks remains in effect using approximately 3 month dated put options. See the list below for shorting candidates. Big, fast money to be made using this approach.
7. Food and commodity prices have partially cratered which sets up an outstanding profit opportunity. Beginning in the next quarter or two onward, commodities are likely to see prices begin soaring, and not stopping for probably a decent bull run. There will be specific option recommendations for those that would like to enjoy making life changing money in a market that very few understand, and even fewer trade. Some of the greatest investing fortunes have been made off of commodities because combined with the leverage of options or futures, you can get 10-100X returns in months or less than two years.
8. We are at the shift point from stocks and bonds into hard assets like commodities, productive land, rental real estate (though this market has already lifted off for some time), and even cryptocurrencies. This is a game changing event because it is the third major run at breaking the fiat currency strangle hold. Generally, the third run forms a completely new paradigm, crashing the old paradigm to replace it with some new system. We either navigate this transition to life changing wealth, or get totally wiped out by it. Coinpicker.us is focused on advising subscribers cleverly enough to make fortunes out of this event. Gold, silver, crypto, strategic options, undervalued high potential stocks, and high dividend assets are part of the answer.

Crypto Market:

As this chart above shows, BTC representing the general crypto market, is not at an extreme in the weekly readings at all. In bull markets, including the current crypto run, CCI will tend to ride near the top of the channel, so we are positioned for mild swings up and down at the moment with an upside bias shown by the ASI chart underneath the CCI. Essentially, the bull market remains in effect. We could go as high as $13,500 and still not be in an extreme condition for the CCI. Dropping to around $8700 would put the CCI below the lower bound where explosive upside moves are often born. The bull has more room to run, and the upside is significant. The alt coin chart below shows a slightly different story.

The chart above shows the crypto market sans BTC, or the alt coin market. This market is poised to lift off because it has lagged BTC significantly. This is not surprising. The relatively new leg of the crypto bull has to age some and recruit new investors in order to broaden the appeal of the alt coins. Several of these projects, including a new favorite – ChainLink (LINK) deliver tremendous functionality and a potential to monetize the platform. The Coinpicker.us AI investing engine that was added to the Premium membership has been buying and selling alt coins alongside the majors, and has far outperformed the majors only, by hefty percentages.

Notice how the CCI is at the low end of the channel, along with RSI. The Stoch RSI shows there may be some near term weakness, but long term, Alt coins will likely outperform as the bull market grows over the coming months. Some new applications in gaming, transfers, titles, and financial apps for EOS, Tron, ChainLink, Dash, Cosmos, Augur, Komodo and a few others are showing amazing potential, plus outperforming most alt coins.

The stocks in the chart below are ripe for long dated puts to short them because they have outrageously high P/Es (Price/Earnings) ratios. Historically, a fairly priced stock might have a P/E from perhaps 8 to as high as 28 for a major growth story. We live in fiat fairy tale times, launching the average P/E to an average over 20 for the SP500, even though most of these companies are not truly profitable with normalized interest rates.

A historical perspective on P/Es shows we are not completely out of whack, yet the earnings are often drummed up with accounting magic instead of GAAP correct numbers.

Gold & Silver:

Based on analysis of the weekly gold chart, gold is now taking a breather before restarting this long bull march well about the last high of $2000. You can add to positions now, or wait for lower prices that may touch around $1400 or so, but not for long. Personally, I am buying more silver first and gold second in a few weeks with the lower prices and loading up every month until I spot the top coming in the distance. Subscribers will know the top is near when I send out the alert. Many moons will pass though before I call a top in this explosive precious metals bull. Silver is on the same path as gold, but is showing much more relative strength.

The gold and silver ratio stands at about 81 today. Considering the low ratio is about 8 and the average is around 35, buying silver is the sure bet of the century.

Alternative Investments:

Believe it or not, despite the news that farmers and food producers are in dire economic straights, these will be the great investments in the not too distant future for those that can adapt to modern conditions. The beef market that I am involved in has had a crash, not because the ranchers are too successful raising cattle, but because they have had to run cattle to market because of not being able to produce or buy enough hay to feed their cattle through the winter. That type of crash can only happen one time before the market launches far higher than anyone usually anticipates.

Future cattle auctions will have a limited supply of cattle, sending prices to undreamed of heights. The way to play this for profit, is to buy long dated cattle call options or futures. Within several months, I expect there to be a sharp spike in prices across all ag commodities. If and when the U.S. and China get reasonable on trade, there will be a rapid boil up of commodities prices that could take a modest nest egg and turn it into a 10-40X fortune in a few weeks. I will post recommended trades in this area for those of you who are comfortable with options. I do not use futures generally because the risks are too high, even though they rarely materialize.
